

Magnificence in the Mountains

October 6- 9, 2011

Three nights/Four

If you would like to sleep where Presidents, Princes and movie stars have stayed...enjoy a stay at

The Homestead.

In 1766, the Homestead opened its doors with a promise to give guests a taste of the healing springs that had drawn visitors to that location for centuries.

Located on 3,000 breathtaking acres and surrounded by the Allegheny Mountains, the Homestead is steeped in history.

Part of the resort's rich history includes being a Confederate hospital during the Civil war.

The Homestead has hosted 22 Presidents including George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and James Madison.

Antebellum Ball Spirit of the South.

Instructors will be on hand to assist in re-learning the waltz and square dances
...period dressed couples, Refreshments and
many photo opportunities for all!

takes place on Saturday
October 8, 2011

There will be "period" movies shown each night...one was actually filmed at The Homestead!

There is afternoon tea each afternoon and chamber music in the Great Hall, a 200-foot-long room lined with pillars, but you can enjoy it in your casual clothes.

You can get gussied up for 3 formal dinners with music in the chandeliered main dining room and participate in the Civil War Ball

The Homestead

kindly requests the pleasure of your company at our ball (Saturday—October 8, 2011).

The evening's program features a blend of popular, classical, and continental melodies typical of the Civil War era

CIVIL WAR ENCAMPMENT

on the Grounds
Oct. 7 & 8, 2011
of The Homestead
During the four years of the Civil War over sixty percent of the battles were fought on Virginia Soil... learn the compelling stories of the Civil War with first-person re-enactors.

Group members will get a real appreciation for the life of a Civil War Soldier. Period politicians, storytelling, music and encampment on the grounds.

OPTIONAL trip to Lexington Virginia –

“Of all the places...this little village is the most beautiful.”
Stonewall Jackson

No town in America retains the spirit of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson quite like Lexington, Virginia.

You will walk the same good earth as Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson.

Visit Lee Chapel and Memorial Cemetery.
Tour Virginia Military Institute - the West Point of the South.
Full dress cadet parade on most Friday afternoons.

For more information contact:
OHIO TRAVEL TREASURES
(513) 923-9112
(800) 582-5997
Email:
ohiotraveltreasures@fuse.net